New York to host Japanese restaurant trade show

NEW YORK — The Japanese Food & Restaurant Show will be held Oct. 21 at the Metropolitan Pavilion here.

The show will feature sake tastings, cooking and knife sharpening demonstrations, and an array of Japanese foods, tableware and equipment. Items such as cherrywood-smoked sea salt, purple sweet-potato vinegar, Kobe beef and a variety of misos and teas also will be on display. Some of the items have previously been unavailable in the United States.

Admission is free. To register visit www.nymtc.com.
